POWERS BACK UNITED STATES

England, France and Japan are Lending their Support to this Country in Its Mexican Attitude

Washington, August 24.—Besides Great Britain, France and Japan, practically all the Central American countries are lending their support to the efforts of the United States to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Mexican revolution. Unless satisfactory overtures are made by the Huerta government before Tuesday President Wilson will proclaim in person in a message to both houses of congress the principles that constitutional government alone be recognized in Mexico. He also will outline the suggestion of the United States for the elimination of Huerta and the establishment of a legally constituted administration in the southern republic.

That the United States is backed by a world wide sentiment in its peaceable policy is conceded in diplomatic circles here. The news of the attitude of France came today in the news from dispatches from Paris stating it was President Poincaré and Foreign of not more than three men, including Quartermaster Sergeants.

IX. Lieut. Quartermaster C. E. Rowe will proceed to Fort Constitution on September 2, in order to receive property and prepare the camp. Company commanders will at once in compliance with General Order No. 20, designate three privates from their respective commands (one to be a cook, preferably) as an advance detail to prepare the camp. The men so detailed will report to Lieut. Rowe at the armory of the First Company in Portsmouth not later than 11 o'clock a. m. September 2, 1913, and the names of this detail will be sent to these headquarters immediately.

STILL AFTER PARDON. Petition to Release Williams, Dover Murdered.

Another effort is to be made to liberate John Williams, the Dover murderer, serving a life sentence, from the state prison.

A petition asking the pardon has been filed with the governor and council and a hearing has been ordered on Sept. 9. Col. Stephen S. Jewett of Laconia is to represent the petitioner.

Similar efforts to secure the pardons of Williams on the ground that the crime for which he was committed was done by another, were made during the administrations of Governor's Floyd, Quimby and Bass, but the petitions were denied in each instance after hearing.

CAPTURE DESERTER.

Harry White Arrested by Police at Somersworth.

Harry White, a deserter from the U. S. army, was recently captured at Dover. While waiting for a train at the depot White escaped from the police and for a while he was among the missing. He took a chance of visiting his old haunts around Somersworth and the police there located him for the second time. He was brought to Fort Constitution and turned over to the commanding officer. He is said to have enlisted from South Berwick and got tired of Uncle Sam's service and skipped.

ON THE SLIT SKIRT.

Dover Pastor Speaks of the Dress and Rag Dances.

Rev. Thomas O'Reilly, pastor of the St. Mary's church at Dover, at the several services on Sunday gave the most of his discourse to the dress of women and the so-called rag dances of the day. He arraigned the wearers of the slit skirt and other dress in scathing terms and the people of his congregation believe his words will have the desired effect.

NO CHANGE IN CURRENCY BILL

Democrats Say that President's Program Will Pass House Intact--Senate May Amend it

Washington, August 24.—The answer of the administration forces to the house of commons of the new currency bill made by the conference of bankers at Chicago yesterday will be a tightening of the lines and a more vigorous endorsement of the bill as it now stands.

Democrats, members of the house currency committee today emphasized the fact that the enthusiastic supporters of the President's currency expect to pass the measure through the house without substantial change.

The amendments proposed by the bankers, it was pointed out by house leaders today was considered in detail when the bill originally was prepared, and in the long debate over its provisions in the house committee on banking and currency. The proposals to reduce the quantity of reserves, and give country banks the privilege of keeping part of their reserves in the bank keeping part of their reserves in the large cities, had many supporters and ultimately may be worked into the bill in the senate, but the change is not expected in the house.

Bankers Present Views

The bankers will have an opportunity to present their views openly to congress after the currency bill goes to the senate. Chairman Owen of the senate currency committee said today:

"I see a good deal of merit in the proposal to reduce somewhat the quantity of reserves. We have not discussed the new legislation sufficiently in committee, however, to know what changes will be made in the bill."

The fact that leading bankers hold different views of the effect of the

ELKS CHAMPIONS OF N. H. SUNSET LEAGUE

Defeated Haymakers for the Title in a Fast Game on Saturday.

The Portsmouth Elks have been crowned the champions of the New Hampshire Sunset League, having defeated the Haymakers of Concord, the champions of the Concord league in two games, taking the second on Saturday here in a rattling good game that was well worth seeing.

There was a large crowd out to see the game between three and four thousand and they saw the locals pull out of what looked like defeat. Bartlett pitched a good game other than in the second when he was hit for three hits and issued two passes which with a couple of errors netted two runs. He avoided down area that did not allow but the hit in the ninth, when three slugs bunched, gave the visitors the lead only to lose it in the last half. He got fine support from Cragen in center and McKean in right and Sanfacon played a fast game at second and also batted exceptionally well, getting three hits, one of which looked like a home run. Bartlett fiddled his position well.

Kiley pitched a good game for the visitors and he fiddled his position finely. He broke several hard drives that of Hughes in the ninth being especially good. Callaghan played a fast game at third and kept his team at the bat.

The Haymakers tied the game in the ninth when they put in Vaughan as a pinch hitter and he came across with a single that scored a run, but it pulled out Strong from center and this cost them the game, for Strong had been out in his position, would have undoubtedly taken Hanson's fly that Lorenze never touched.

The game in detail. The Elks won the toss and took the field. Murphy opened with a fly to Cragen, Callaghan followed with a grounder to Kiley. Hughes singled and Kiley hit to Hughes who fanned and both were out. Strong fanned.

Hughes singled. He was advanced on Hanson's sacrifice to Kiley. P. Murphy Swasey singled advanced. Hughes McKean hit to Kiley who broke the ball but was unable to handle it and Hughes scored. Sanfacon hit for two bases and Swasey and McKean who had been advanced on a wild pitch scored. Cragen fanned and DeRohan was thrown out by Kiley.

Score Elks 3, Haymakers 0.

SECOND INNING.

Angwin struck out, Beardon singled and scored on Lorenze's two base drive. Miller drew a pass, Murphy hit to Swasey who fumbled on easy fly and the bases were filled. Callaghan singled scoring Lorenze. Fraser hit to Hughes who threw to the plate to get Miller and DeRohan let it go between him and Miller and Murphy scored. Kiley drew a pass again filling the bases. Strong struck out, Angwin drew a pass forcing in Callaghan. Beardon fanned, closing the inning. Sheehan and Sarette fanned and Hughes fled to Strong.

Score, Haymakers 5, Elks 3. The visitors failed to score in the third, Lorenze fanned, Miller singled, Murphy fled to McKean in right, Callaghan was safe on Sheehan's fumble, but with two men on Fraser fled to Sarette.

The Elks scored a run in their half. Hanson was thrown out by Kiley who made a fine stop of a hard hit ball. Swasey was safe on Fraser's fumble, stole second, McKean fled to Miller. Sanfacon came across with a single and Swasey scored on rather slow fielding by Lorenze. Cragen fled to Lorenze.

Score Haymakers 5, Elks 4.

Neither side scored in the fourth and in the fifth the visitors were out in order, but the Elks took the lead. Hanson was hit and walked, he went to second on Swasey's single and a third where McKean was thrown out by Fraser. On what was to have been a squeeze play, Sanfacon failed to bunt, but Hanson who started with the wind up was in for ahead to go back and he was retired by Beardon. Sanfacon was hit and stole second with a man on second and third. Cragen singled and both Swasey and Beardon scored. Cragen attempted to steal third and was thrown out by Kiley.

Score Elks 6, Haymakers 5.

There was nothing doing in the sixth, but in the sixth, seventh and eighth. The visitors got one man on in the seventh on an error of Swasey. The Elks got a man on in the same inning, when Swasey singled but McKean's fly to Strong retired the side in the eighth. Sanfacon singled, but he was retired on a fast double play.

NINTH INNING.

In the ninth inning the Haymakers had the score Callaghan opened with a single over second Fraser hit to Cragen, Kiley singled, advancing Callaghan and Vaughan was sent in to bat for Strong, who had been unable to do anything with Sarette. He came across with a single and Callaghan scored. Angwin fled to DeRohan and Beardon hit to Sarette and was retired at first.

Sheehan fled to Lorenze in right. Sarette was passed, Hughes hit to Kiley who made a great stop and touched Hughes on the way to the base. Sarette going to third, Hanson hit a fly to center that was not difficult, but Lorenze failed to get near it and Sarette scored, winning the game. The score:

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Garden City N. Y., August 25.—Two extremes in golf will meet here when the amateur golf championship of the United States is played for Sept. 1-6 inclusive. Walter J. Travis, the famous golf veteran, will likely be the oldest competitor, while W. Heinrich Schmidt, the newest meteor in the golf world, will no doubt be the youngest. Travis has been playing the sport and game for years and is the old war horse of the links. Schmidt is only a schoolboy, but his brilliant playing in Boston nearly landed him the British amateur championship there, being put out by Hilton on the last hole. The lad is in high class at Worcester, Mass. Both Travis and Schmidt are now ready for the championship.

THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE

Those who have read John Fox, Jr.'s widely read story, The Trail of the Lonesome Pine, must have realized that June, the primitive mountain girl was indeed coy. In Eugene Walter's brilliant dramatization which comes to the Portsmouth Theatre soon Isabelle Lowe in the role of June is even more coy than Mr. Fox had her. Her great yet primitive love for Jack transcends everything else and she is not a bit backward in hinting her real feeling toward him. Mr. Walter has realized better this what a queer instrument of thought the English language is. While coyness has the various meanings of shyness, modest reserve, bashfulness, shrinking from advances of familiarity, mischievousness, the verb "to coy" may also mean the exact opposite, to entice, to decoy, allure. It is in this sense that coyness is obviously a trait of primitive maidens such as June is, and which Miss Lowe accentuates in her wonderful characterization of what millions have read and dreamed about and which Eugene Walter has cleverly identified.

minister Minchion would not receive Francisco de la Barry, appointed minister to France by Provisional President Huerta and now enroute to his post. His status it was pointed out in the dispatches from Paris was similar to that of General Felix Diaz, special envoy to Japan who it was announced in Tokyo would not be welcomed.

Great Britain's statement recently that the recognition of Huerta had been provisional pending an election, taken together with the expressions from France and Japan, all of whom have formally recognized Huerta, are the only public manifestations of sympathy with the policy of the United States in opposing Huerta; but in the quiet realm of diplomacy to a greater pressure is being brought to bear upon the Huerta regime to yield to the American suggestions for peace.

Assurances that Latin-American stands by President Wilson have been informally received here. This had been expected, however, as the interest of Central and South American countries are admittedly in line with the attitude taken by the United States in the present situation.

While President Wilson has completed his message, which will embrace not only a summary of the proposals made by John Lind and the reply of the Huerta Government, but a statement of the policy to be followed by the United States administration tion officials were reluctant to discuss what course would be pursued. They pointed significantly, however, to the Latin-American statement issued by President Wilson during the first fortnight of his administration and declared it would be the basis of what he would have to say on Thursday. In that statement the president announced that he earnestly desired the most cordial cooperation and understanding between the peoples and leaders of America, and said:

"Co-operation is possible, only when supported at every turn by the orderly processes of just government based upon law, not only arbitrary or irregular force."

The president pointed out that the United States had nothing to seek in Latin-America by the lasting interests of the people, and the security of governments intended for the people and for no special group or interest. Secretary Bryan had a brief conference with President Wilson during the day discussing the Mexican situation. Mr. Bryan announced that the Mexican situation remains unchanged.

OF FARRAGUT CUP

B. Warren Cochran of the Baltimore Country Club, who has won several tournaments this season, defeated C. W. Bass of the local club in the final for the Farragut cup in the annual invitation tournament of the Abenaki Golf Club at Rye Beach Saturday. It was by far the best final that has been played for this cup and Cochran in defeating Bass created a new record for the course, in the afternoon round. His card was:

Out 4-3-5-3-4-1-3-2-4-23,
In 4-3-3-4-4-4-4-5-36-69.

The finals were thirty six holes and in the morning round Bass was playing the better game and at the twelfth he had Cochran two down. He was all even on the fourteenth and here developed a streak of bad playing, missing a short put for a win on the fifteenth. On the sixteen he missed another and on the seventeenth he lost and on the eighteenth he slipped up on two foot put for a win, finishing the morning round two down. They started out well in the afternoon halving the first three holes, but Cochran pulled a three on the fourth and from that time played perfect golf and he was out in thirty-three. The match was over on twelve holes but they played it out for the medal score which gave Cochran the record for the course.

The finals for the President's Cup were won by Percy Parker of Vesper, who defeated Alvan F. Fuller of Boston, 3 and 1.

In the finals for the Rye Beach Cup W. G. Garrett of Brookline defeated P. Gorier of York Country Club, 3 and 2.

In the final for the defeated eight, 13 holes, A. F. Cooper of Portsmouth C.

HATS TO SAVE HEAD-BREAKING.

A corner's jury has placed it on record that they consider that polo helmets should be as securely fastened so that they cannot fall off and this seems to be a common-sense recommendation. In India, the home of polo, men used, till a score of years ago, to play in silk or flannel caps on the cold weather, until Lord Roberts—at the time commander-in-chief in India—issued a general order that helmets were always to be worn by officers of the army when playing polo. Most of our army polo players in England have copied the Indian fashion, while others wear specially made caps, designed to break the effects of a fall. The reason that most men wear "toppers" in the hunting field is that there is no other form of that which breaks a fall so well as does the old stovepipe hat, it, sufficiently stiffened. I fancy that a chin-strap, such as sailors use to keep their caps on their heads in stormy weather, would be all that is required to keep the helmets in place, and that our polo players need not copy the rajah who come years ago provoked many smiles at Hurlingham and Ranelagh, by fixing his turban firmly on his head by means of a handkerchief passed over it and tied under his chin.—London Sketch.

THE NEWS MUCH APPRECIATED BY MEN

Washington, Aug. 23.—Uncle Sam's serial "news service," whereby the officers and men on United States war ships far out at sea are kept informed each night of the baseball scores and other items of interest, has proven a great success. Reports to the Navy Department from the battleship fleets, which has just returned to home waters with a big party of midshipmen, say the reports were picked up readily by the vessel when she was 275 nautical miles away from the navy's powerful station at Arlington, Va., and 2610 miles distant from the station at Key West.

BOY REPAID FOR HIS BICYCLE

Charles Sullivan a young lad living on Thornton street, ran into an automobile in front of Bass' drug store on Saturday evening just as the car was pulling out from the sidewalk. The bicycle was badly damaged and it looked as though the lad would go under the wheels. The driver of the car, while not at fault generously paid the lad for the damage to the bicycle.

James McElhern and the Beautiful Victims in "The Pink Lady" at Portsmouth Theatre Tonight

A FAMOUS MUSICAL COMEDY.

The internationally famous musical comedy production, "The Pink Lady," is the attraction at the Portsmouth Theatre, this evening, August 25. This extraordinary theatrical property is not only the recognized peer of American-made musical comedy, but in Europe it was voted the best thing presented on the foreign stage in a decade. At its initial presentation at the Globe Theatre, London, the press and public were fully electrified by its reception and the keynote of success was sounded so loud and true that immediately arrangements were made for its presentation in every country of the world.

The story of "The Pink Lady" is taken from the French farce, "Le Satyre" by Georges Feytaud and Marcel Guillemard. C. M. S. McElhern wrote the book and lyrics and Ivan Caryll the music.

"The Pink Lady" relates the adventures of a young Parisian blonde who must shortly forsake the joys of bachelorhood for the humdrum of married life. He plans one more luncheon with an old flame in a quiet restaurant in the forest of Compiègne. In this as well as in all of his escapades he has told his sweetheart that he has been out with a fictitious friend, one Dondidier.

Unhappily she selects the same restaurant for a little luncheon party. Separately they come to the resort to find the wife of the proprietor has been kissed by a satyr, a Parisian Beau Brummel, another Dondidier, a kiss which gives her instantly the reputation of being a famous beauty.

Here also have assembled the young ladies upon whom the satyr has smiled with approval. The young couple meet. The girl is suspicious until the young man's erstwhile sweetheart announced that she is the wife of the Dondidier who has been debauched in Paris. With surprise and alarm he learns that the person whose name he has used in vain so often is really a respectable dealer in antiques. His sweetheart plans to motor to Paris to remove all suspicion by facing Dondidier. He must reach him first to warn him. The victims also hurry to the city to meet the wonderful and mysterious satyr and invite him to a ball which they are to give at the Cafe Les Satyres.

Dondidier, the antique dealer, the fictitious satyr, is found to be old but respectable. He refuses to listen to any scheme of deception until he is promised a collection he has been making for years. Then enters the jealous fiancee, who immediately begins to inveigle him in trouble. His wife finds him making love plunges him deeper into his entanglements. The victim of the satyr had him as their leader. Before he can free himself he is forced to attend the ball, where the threads are untangled.

The production was staged by Julian Mitchell and Herbert Gresham. It is elaborately mounted in three acts. The first is laid in the gardens of "Le Joli Coucou," a restaurant in the forest of Compiègne, the second in the interior of an antique shop in the Rue St. Honore, Paris, and the third at the ball of the Nymphs and Satyrs.

The pleasing musical numbers include "I'm Going to Be Married in June," "When Love Goes Astray," "The Girl by the Basketweaver," "Like It," "Daisy Old, Daisy Old," "The Kiss Waltz," "Hide and Seek" and the wonderfully popular waltz number, "Beautiful Lady." Everything will be seen here in detail as was presented during its run in Europe and America.

VETERAN ENGINEER
DIES SUDDENLY

Charles H. Cornell, one of the veteran engineers of the Boston and Maine railroad was found dead in his bed at his boarding place at York Beach on Sunday morning. Death was due to heart disease. Mr. Cornell was 60 years of age and a native of Portland. He went to work as a fireman on the old Portsmouth, Portland and Saco road in 1870 and in time was promoted to freight engineer and for years he ran a through freight between Portland and Boston. He was the oldest freight engineer on the road. He was transferred to the York Beach branch passenger service about two years ago.

He was a man who was very popular with the railroad men wherever he worked and his death was received with genuine sorrow along the line. He leaves a wife and daughter in Portland.

TRYING TO KEEP RAILWAY OUT OF QUAGMIRE.

A hard struggle is developed today, is being waged by army engineers to keep the Panama Railroad on top of an almost bottomless quagmire in what are known as the Brazos and Quebracho bottoms in the Gatun River Valley. Success the reports in devoted, is in sight after months of arduous work. Red rock lies almost two hundred feet below the surface, overlaid by thick, soft clay, decomposed vegetable matter and sand. Thousands of tons of soil have been dumped into the place only to be swallowed up by the quagmire. In consequence the four railroad embankments across the valley, aggregating only three miles, have required five million cubic yards of filling.

A Wholesale Restraint Should Be Exercised.

This is the season when grim death claims many of its victims through the medium of drowning. The news of the day is interspersed with accounts of people having lost their lives in water, and the larger per cent. of the victims are those who sought refreshment in a bath. Year after year these fatalities occur and the numbers being continually on the increase. The sad record of one season seemingly carries no lesson to the pleasure seekers, and a more appalling death record marks the close of each season. It is not to be assumed that the sport of bathing will be in any degree rendered less popular but these sad statistics should have some influence with parents who are in the habit of permitting their children to go into the water at all times unattended. A wholesale restraint on the part of the parents and guardians would undoubtedly result in the saving of many lives. Let us hope that it may be exercised.

Hitching Post Is a Sign of Hospitality.

Have you a hitching post at your house? Should we drive up to your place to make you a visit, and should we find no post there to which we could tie our horse, we might conclude you were not very hospitable. The fact that a hitching post is placed before a house is an indication the people of that house are expecting neighbors and friends to call upon them occasionally, therefore a hitching post is a sign of hospitality even though there is nothing but a hole through the post through which to pass a strap, but if in addition to this there is a chain and snap attached to it the indication is that the owner of that home is a sociable man, who visits his neighbors and friends and expects them to visit him in return.

Give Them Plenty of Water.

If everyone who owns or cares for dogs would see to it that the animals have plenty of water to drink during the summer months there would be fewer cases of rabies. There are doubtless hundreds of people to whom this simple precaution never occurs, and who just take it for granted that their canine friends can, of course, find water somewhere whenever they are thirsty. This applies to other animals as well, but dogs are the principal sufferers.

A Way to Prevent Divorces.

An Ohio judge suggests that women should furnish samples of their cooking when applying for marriage licenses. Good idea. And let the prospective groom present a bank book showing a substantial deposit or a certificate from a trustworthy source that he is industrious and has remunerative employment.

Some Fizz.

Authorities in the drug business estimate the number of soda fountains in the United States at not less than 75,000, and they are said to represent an investment of $50,000,000. The annual receipts of these supplies of soft drinks may total $500,000,000.

SURVEY SHIP HANNIBAL HAS MASCOT

Navy Making New Charts of Central American Coast Lines.

Of the exploits of pioneers who braved the manifold dangers of the frontier pools have sung. Men also have erected monuments in honor of these hardy trail blazers. Today the venturesome youths of the country, may be heard bewailing the fact that nothing has been left for him save pursuits fraught with no more danger than arguing a case before a supreme court justice wearing an opaqued uniform or drilling an all well.

Several young men in the wardroom of the United States survey ship Hannibal at present anchored in the lower harbor have many tales to tell of another variety of trail blazing. Sun tanned and hardened by exposure to all weather they have returned with their commanding officer Commander George N. Hayward, from a sojourn of eight months in the broad basin of the Caribbean sea, where they have accomplished some of the greatest survey work undertaken in recent years.

Navigation in the Caribbean, owing to the fact that the latest previous charts were prepared back in 1843 in which British Admiralty Survey, has been more or less hazardous, owing to the changes which have taken place in the coast line, coral islands, and banks in the vicinity. Comparatively few lights exist and prudent ship masters often have been compelled to anchor until sunrise when some unfamiliar portion of the littoral had caused them to lose their bearings.

In order to benefit vessels engaged in commerce with Honduras, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Panama, and Colombia, soundings were taken and charts were corrected by Captain Hayward and his men and a general survey made of the whole vicinity.

Much of the work entailed hazardous trips several miles inland in order to place triangulation towers, used in the work of survey, in many places dense undergrowth had to be cut through and in the camps plished in the heart of the virgin forests the officers and seamen had to undergo hardships in the matter of sleep from strange insects and climatic discomforts.

From the charts prepared and the observations made the United States Hydrographic Office will be able to give to ship masters a highly perfected series of charts of the region over which the men of the Hannibal toiled religiously inch by inch.

The Hannibal steamed from Portsmouth December 21 of last year and left Colon on her return voyage on July 23, last. It was her second duty to special survey duty in Central American waters under the command of Commander Hayward, who made a similar survey of other channels early last year.

With what has been accomplished Commander Hayward is satisfied, and said yesterday that his chief desire now is to see the work supplemented by the installation of many lights to mark the dangers of the menacing shoals and submerged reefs of the Caribbean.

As the Panama Canal nears completion the work of thoroughly surveying adjacent waters has become a very important matter and it is understood that when the Hannibal makes a third trip this year to continue the great work she will be reinforced with another vessel on similar detail.

On more than one occasion the Hannibal steaming cautiously about has encountered coral reefs submerged but a few feet. These were carefully noted and charted. Towers equipped with survey instruments were sunk in the sea bed off shore where the water was shallow and where it was of too great a depth to permit of the towers being floated and anchored. Other towers were raised on sandbars and the work of triangulation went on with scrupulous accuracy.

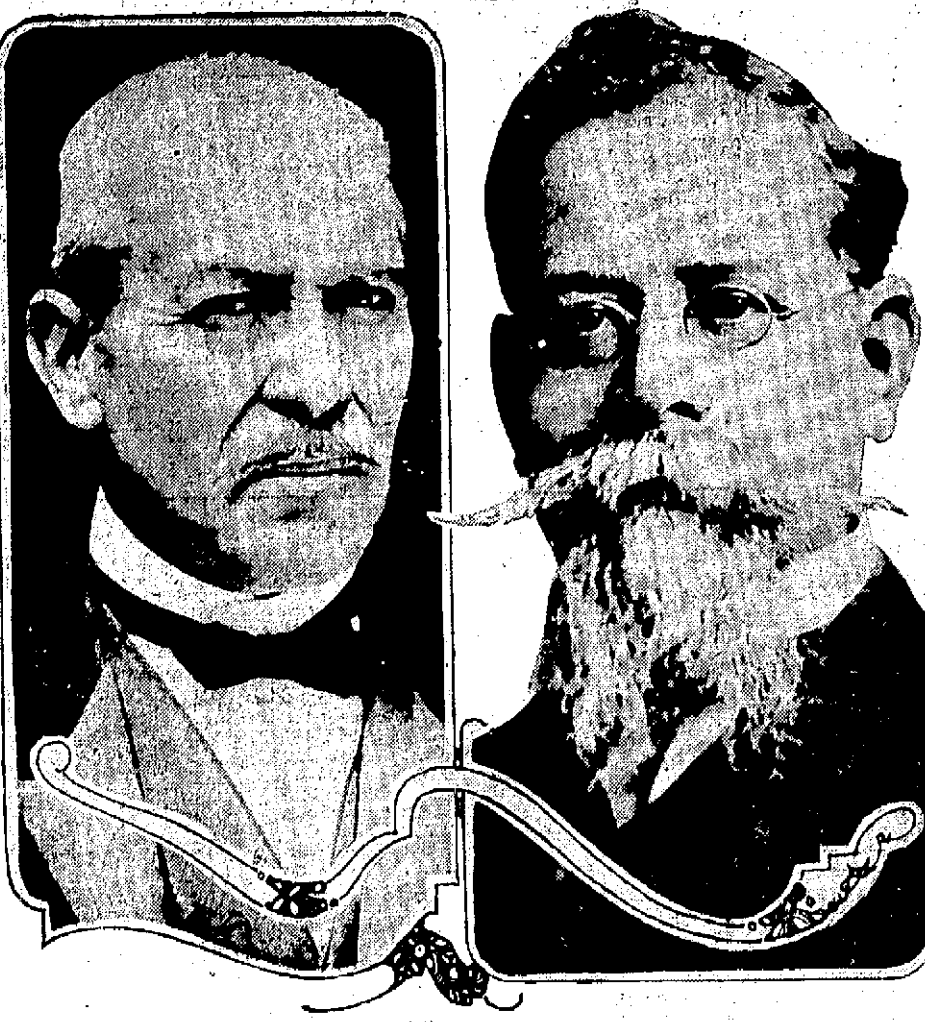

On shore Ensign W. A. Medel was a detachment of seamen and a staff of natives cut their way into the quick undergrowth, dragging towers behind them and raising them on sandbars where human feet had not before trod. There were few accidents during the completion of this part of the work, although great trees sometimes had to be cut through in order to clear the path sufficiently.

It was in the course of these shore expeditions that Paymaster S. M. Mathes and Ensign Medel and J. C. Sweeney drafted the mascots which are now on board the Hannibal.

Nanny, is a goat which was caught by Ensign Medel, who made her captive by captivizing her. The said goat had no mascot, and in the evenings when work was done he used to sit in the hills bawling the Aulike notes of her kind until Nanny came along and comforted her. Paymaster Mathes says that Ensign Medel incidentally met more goats than Nanny by his efforts at music.

Then came Casey, which originally was a hellish monkey, but which is now the most docile living thing on board with the exception of the Huerta and Carranza, Principals In Mexico's Turbulent Sea of International Difficulties.

Photos copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.

Provisional President Huerta of Mexico and General Carranza, head of the constitutionalists, watched each other carefully while President Wilson, through his personal representative, John Lind, was attempting to end the reign of terror to Americans living in Mexico. These two are the principal figures in Mexico's present crisis. If the United States found it necessary to intervene, sending its army across the border, it was regarded as certain that Huerta and Carranza would forget factional differences and fight together against Uncle Sam. On the other hand, if President Wilson decided to keep his hands off and follow President Taft's policy of noninterference it was said that Huerta and Carranza, aided by other rebel leaders, would likely fight each other to the death.

millmaker's canary, which never chirps except in the most subdued and apologetic tones. The canary's name is Violet. Casey, although a monkey of peace, fears no man; neither regards he least—save only Nanny.

Early is known as a puen, a Central American rodent, some two feet in length, and very similar to an overgrown tailless rat. He eats nothing but fruit, and although adverse to being handled, never attempts to bite anyone. Someone asked the paymaster what he would call the new mascot.

"Oh, I shall call him Early," said the paymaster and the name remained.

The latest addition to the Hannibal is perhaps the most remarkable. His name is Don Quixote, and he is a parrot, of vivid plumage and pleasant disposition.

As proof of this morality in the old Spanish Sweeney told a story of how he and several of his fellow officers went to the Panama Canal works. Forgetful of the presence of Don Quixote, afterwards they stood around discussing their trip.

"You see that kink in Don's parrot's neck?" asked Sweeney with a grave shake of his head, and the suggestion of a tear in his eye. "Well, that's what happened because of our thoughtlessness."

Pressed for further details he said: "Someone inadvertently mentioned the Gatun dam and Don fell off his spar from the shock. It was the word dam that did it."

CURRENT OPINION

Are Philippines Ready for Self Government?

Give up the Philippines! Such a thing is not to be thought of. It would be gross insanity, and, even more, it would be cowardly.

WE DID NOT GO OVER TO THE PHILIPPINES TO PLAY; WE WENT THERE FOR A PURPOSE. TO LEAVE OUR WORK HALF-COMPLETED WOULD MAKE THIS NATION APPEAR LIKE A CHILD WHO HAD GROWN TIRED AND THROWN AWAY THE OBJECT WHICH A MOMENT BEFORE HAD ATTRACTED IT.

Exploitation was not our reason for devoting time and energy to the upbuilding of a remarkable country. It is our moral and religious duty to continue the work we have undertaken.

To begin at the beginning, we came into possession of the islands by conquest and purchase. We paid $20,000,000 for them. At that time there was an insurrection going on against Spain headed by Aguinaldo and some of his generals. Neither our army nor the government gave the revolutionists the slightest ground for believing that we were getting the Philippines for them, so when we came into possession of the islands the whole world was before us.

But we did not deal in reprisals. That is an erroneous idea which was carried to this country in wild rumors which were without foundation. It is no more true than that we have oppressed the natives, which certainly is not the case.

In a measure this feeling may be responsible for the ignorant reasoning of some people that self government should be extended to the Philippines. Men who think thus do so because they are uninformed of past conditions, but also of the present status of affairs.—Samuel Fallows, Bishop of the Reformed Episcopal Church, Chicago.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. DEMERITT.

One member of the present New Hampshire legislature desires to offer a slight tribute of respect and esteem to the memory of Albert Demeritt, whose sudden and accidental death occurred on Friday last at his farm in Durham. He was of that class of men whose political predilections do not limit their social affiliations, and he found many friends and well-wishers in all the political parties. His commanding figure and excellent vocal faculties and mental ability were particularly noticeable when he occasionally and always for a purpose addressed the House. He was devoted to the interests of the New Hampshire agricultural college. Mr. Demeritt was the kind of man that one likes to meet in a friendly way, and whose acquaintance one naturally seeks. We found him cordial and genial, and counted much upon his opinions, even though we might differ in party matters. Indeed, he was of such as lead us to question our own opinions when our views differ. In seeing and hearing him as he stood upon the floor of the House to speak we are reminded of the familiar quotation: "As some tall cliff that rears its awful form," Swells from the vale and midway leaves the storm. While round its breast the lowering clouds are spread Eternal sunshine settles on its head." L. W. B.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this method of expressing our sincere thanks to all who endeavored to lighten our sorrow occasioned by the death of our beloved son and especially to all who sent floral tributes. The kindness and sympathy of the B. & M. employees, hackmen and truckmen will not be soon forgotten. Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. deRochemont, Jr.

Riverside Lodge, 72, L. O. O. F., of Kittery, on Saturday observed its 40th anniversary combined with its annual picnic by a day at Quamphagan park.

The special car leaving in the morning carried a good number of lodge members and their families as well as a goodly supply of "eats." Every one seemed to enjoy themselves, both old and young. Among those present was Charles Chickering, the first noble grand of Riverside Lodge. We also noticed that Gus Jackson, Joe Remick, Rufus Remick, Cal. Hayes and a number of the other boys were having an enjoyable time talking over old times. The chowder, sandwiches, coffee, fruit, and cigars provided by the committee melted away like ice in a hot sun. And the Elks-Concord ball game had nothing on the game between the Hinky-Dinks and the Whankdinks. The band, too, was right there with the music, many enjoying both the dancing in the pavilion and the band concerts in the grove. The two special cars for the homeward bound trip were well filled with a tired but well satisfied crowd.

CO-OPERATIVE FIRE PROTECTION WITH STATES

During the last quarter of the fiscal year, the federal government entered into cooperative fire protection agreements with the following states: Maine, New York, Minnesota, Montana, Washington, and Oregon. These six agreements contemplate the protection from fire of approximately $7,000,000 acres of land on the forested watersheds of navigable streams, for which purpose $51,500 of federal funds have been made available. There are at the present time 14 states which are engaged in active cooperation of this kind, and it is possible that three new states, Kentucky, South Dakota and West Virginia, will be added by early fall.

The federal government thought it has allotted a total of $85,000 for the work of the present season, is a minor contributor in the aggregate. Under the impetus given to fire protection of navigable watersheds through this arrangement the cooperating states will expend an aggregate of $3 for every dollar which the federal government spends, to which may be added about $2 more from private sources.

These amounts, of course, do not represent the sum total of expenditures for fire protection even in these states. For in some of them the state itself is spending considerably more money in the protection of forested lands lying outside the watersheds of navigable streams. On the national forests, too, the government is spending several times the amount of its contribution to cooperative fire protection in the states which contain federal timberland.

Aside from these governmental agencies the railroads, lumber companies (both individually and through their cooperative protective associations), municipalities and private land owners throughout the country are growing more and more alive to the needs of better forest fire protection and are devoting each year an increased sum to this work.

The fair at Salem, N. H., was well patronized by many persons from this town on both Wednesday and Thursday.

The Reapers Society met with Mrs. Berkeley at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon. Much business was transacted and then a short time was passed socially.

The many friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Deloche of Portsmouth, are sorry to learn of the death of their only son, and extend their sympathy to the bereaved parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nutter and family of Chelsea, Mass., are passing a few days with Mr. and Mrs. James Coleman.

The men spent a day in clearing up Grange Park, and another half day will put it in proper condition to have the benches, booths etc., put in place for the Grange Fair.

The Shakespeare society gave a whist party in the town hall on Friday evening. A large company was present. The first part of the evening was passed in playing whist and the latter part in dancing. Mrs. Margaret Staples presided at the piano, during the recess a dainty repast of fruit punch and cake was served. Miss Florence Pickering won the ladies prize, a manicule set, and Mr. Charles Badger the gentlemen's prize.

Only seven days before the great fair to be held at Grange Park near the Newington church. With just a turn here and there all roads will lead to the fair grounds. The last plans are being perfected for the great day. Very many attractive features are planned something to interest both old and young from early morning until late in the evening.

Remember and not be behind in making your entries for there remains but a few days for their making. By Wednesday of this week, Come one, come all. Those who remain away will miss the time of their life. Don't forget that exhibits can be made by anyone from any town and city and that if they are superior to those that are exhibited by the citizens will surely win the prizes for everything will be judged according to their merits. The sports cannot fail to attract the men, ladies, boys and girls, and to afford much amusement to the lookers on. The evening cannot fail to be passed pleasantly by everyone in listening to Shakespeare's play "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

SEVEN WONDERS OF THE WORLD.

Of the seven modern wonder works of the world, not one is American. One of them, 400 years old, has its inspiration in religion—St. Peter's at Rome, the largest church ever built; the second, 100 years old, is the greatest triumph ever erected, commemorating the victories of the great conqueror Napoleon I.; the other five are modern engineering works. It is typical of the changed ideal of the ages that only one of the ancient wonders, the Colosseum, and only one of the modern wonders, the Colosseum, are being very distinctly utilized, the other noble ideas gave them all birth.

Of the utilitarian works the Suez Canal easily comes first. It shortened the sea route from northern Europe to the Orient by 5000 miles, between certain ports more than half. The canal was begun in 1859, estimated to cost $30,000,000, and to be finished in 1869. Its actual cost was $30,000,000, and it was opened in 1869. The idea was realized, but none of the other eleven, efficiency principles was thoroughly applied, most of them not at all; hence both the double time and trouble cost.

The next great engineering work was also French, the Eiffel tower, rising 1000 feet into the air, at once the highest structure erected by man and the prototype of modern American steel construction, which as a matter of course followed when passenger elevators or lifts were made practical.

The third great wonder is the Fifth of North bridge, cantilever, similar to three pairs of great Eiffel towers, each pair joined at the base, each half stretching out horizontally 800 feet without end support. This bridge is massive in design because wind pressure is more dangerous than train load.

The fourth modern wonder is the St. Gotthard tunnel, twelve miles long, under the Alps. There was a Brenner railroad route over the Austrian Alps; a M. Cents tunnel under the French Alps; but Italy, Switzerland and Germany combined to divert the century-old trade between south and north to a shorter new route, the key to the situation being the long tunnel, more than twice as long as any American railroad tunnel.

The seventh and last of the modern wonders are twin cousin ships, the Eastmain and the Manicouagan, submerged and designed to restore to Great Britain the blue ribbon of the sea. Of these seven wonders one belongs to Italy, one jointly to Italy and Switzerland, three belong to France, and two to Great Britain. An ideal definitely conceived in advance and meticulously realized is manifest in each, and in most of them other efficiency principles are applied, in some only in embryonic vestiges, in others in advanced form—notably in the two steamers, which as to cost, time of completion, and performance, realized expectations.—Harrington Emerson in The Engineering Magazine.

CHAUTAUQUAS AND AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

Chautauquas have become highly important recently in the teaching of agriculture. Each year declares E. J. Jenks in his annual review of agricultural instruction for the United States Bureau of Education the Chautauqua movement becomes a more accredited factor in the education of the farmer. The program which in the early history of the movement consisted principally of Bible study and recreation, have been considerably broadened, and special features dealing with farm life are becoming more popular and more frequent. It is now a common occurrence to find these programs offering courses in stock judging, poultry raising, soils and testing, household economy, etc.

Scores of new assemblies are organized every year and the favorite scene is the rural district. Over 600 local Chautauquas were held the past season in Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and Missouri, more than 100 being held in towns with an average of only 500 population. In some places, boys' and girls' clubs have been formed in connection with the Chautauquas, and exhibitions and demonstrations of their work have formed an important part of the program.

Another education described by Mr. Jenks is the Grange, or to give it its official title, "The Order of Patrons of Husbandry." Since its revival in 1890, the Grange has developed into the largest and most influential national organization of farmers, with 30,000 subsidiary granges and more than a million members. Educational work is prominent in the Grange, the lecturer's hour being everywhere established. There is frequently a series of lectures on some problems of agricultural education and here and there classes have been formed to carry on college work in agriculture by correspondence. Particularly important has been the influence of the Grange in having agriculture introduced into the public schools as a regular school subject.

NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

Concord, August 25.—Last week was very busy one in the capital many of whose people were out of town attendance upon various Old Home Day celebrations, an even larger number attended the great Rockingham Fair at Salem. Governor Peck and his council and staff were there on Thursday, Governor's day, and in their honor Walter Cox, New Hampshire's premier reformer, won the great race of the week, the $5000 stake for 2:12 trotters. No business meeting of the governor and council was held last week, but this week they will get together in between their visits to the Veterans' Reunion at The Wells on Wednesday and the Daniel Webster birthplace celebration at Franklin on Thursday.

John and Clara Commissioner Neal installed for his state department at Rockingham one of the exhibits that secured the most interest and praise of any on the grounds. It showed a collection of New Hampshire fish as nearly as possible in their native haunts, a realistic representation of a mountain brook being furnished for their reception. Almost the entire force of the state board of health was at the fair looking after attempted violations of the state's pure food laws and doing a work on this line which was commended editorially by some of the Boston papers as a good example for Massachusetts to follow.

The fair as a whole was bigger and better this year than last—and it was a wonder in its yearling form of 1913. One of the great improvements of this year was in the railroad service. To handle 100,000 people a day over a single track road is a good deal of an undertaking, and in 1912 the Boston & Maine managers were taken a little unawares; but this year they had everything planned to a nicety, and handled the great crowds promptly and comfortably and without an accident of any kind.

The protracted drought has resulted in this section and elsewhere. In a great number of brush and forest fires, and State Forester Hirst said that last year's damage totals are already exceeded. He is hoping, however, for the arrival of heavy rains before the tremendous totals on this line of the year 1913 are equalled. One of the brush fires of last week in this vicinity seriously threatened the buildings on the state camp grounds across the Merrimack river, and had not the local fire department been able to stop the progress of the flames where they did the oldtimers' "militia call" would have been heard on the city bells and the National Guardsmen summoned to fight the fire.

The most interesting of the Old Home Week celebrations in this vicinity was that at Boscowen where a beautiful library building was presented to the town by Hon. Benjamin A. Kimball of this city, the late Hon. John Kimball and the heirs of the late Enoch Gerrish, both of the Messers. Kimball and Mr. Gerrish being natives of Boscowen, Secretary of State Pearson presided over the exercises, which included the address of presentation by Mr. Kimball; the acceptance by Dr. E. E. Graves in behalf of the town; and remarks by Rev. Dr. Arthur Little of Newton, Mass., and Charles Webster of East Orange, N. J., natives of the town; by Rev. Drs. Berle and Rowley of Boston summer residents; and by Hon. George H. Moses of Concord, who took the place of Hon. William E. Chandler in the latter's enforced absence. Mr. Chandler has been ill for a fortnight and while his condition is appreciably improved it is not probable that he will be able to carry out his part as president of the Daniel Webster Birthplace Association in the exercises of this week Thursday at the restored birthplace. This will be a great disappointment to him, as well as to all those present, for he has been the main spring and chief worker in the association and to his interest in the project and to his success in interesting others is largely due the credit for completing this worthy work, preserving a historical landmark and re-awakening interest in the life and deeds of New Hampshire's greatest son.

Among business visitors of the week at the state house were Major William H. Trickey, Major James W. Bean of Brockton, Mass., and Malfield C. Lamprey of this city, the committee who have been charged by the governor and council with the duty of closing up the affairs of the ill-fated Hall of the Heroes commission.

A pretty romance attends the coming of a new arrival into the official circle at the state house, and an Omaha, Nebraska, paper, tells the story as follows:

"Lieutenant Frederick C. Test, 23d Infantry, U. S. A., the new inspector of the New Hampshire National Guard with headquarters at Concord, N. H., where he has just reported for duty, was married in Omaha just one day previous to his departure for Concord, the wedding being an outcome of the cyclone which wrecked this city last Easter.

"Lieutenant Test, whose home is in Council Bluffs, Ia., was ordered to assist in the relief work and while here renewed an acquaintance with Miss J. Bixby of Omaha, whom he had known during school days. Miss Bixby was assisting in relief work.

"Lieutenant Test was later ordered to Concord, N. H., and had made his railroad reservations for departing on Sunday evening. Sunday afternoon he called on Miss Bixby. An hour before train time he cancelled his reservation and made another one for the following evening.

"Then he telephoned his father, Gen. E. F. Test of Omaha, that he was to be married Monday afternoon.

"The ceremony was solemnized Monday all right, and the bride and groom left at seven for Concord."
